Go Glamping in AFRICA

Safari honeymoons are the perfect way for newlyweds to get up close to nature for the ultimate wildlife adventure. But if you thought that staying in tented camps in the African plains was to compromise on luxury and romance, then think again!

Abandon thoughts of damp canvas, cold nights and cramped spaces. The luxury travel company andBeyond, has selected a hot list of its African tented camps, which are perfect for romantic couples looking for glamping at its best – where honeymooners can fall asleep in comfort; close to the stars and a footstep from nature.

BOTSWANA Chobe Under Canvas

Sleeping under canvas is one of the best ways to enjoy life in the African bush. Set within the game-rich Chobe National Park, which is home to some of the largest elephant herds on the African continent, andBeyond Chobe Under Canvas moves to a different private campeite every five to six days. Each time it is carefully positioned as close as possible to the resident game. AndBeyond Chobe Under Canvas has walk-in tents with en-suite bathrooms, hot bucket showers and superb camp cuisine. This is a place where guests can connect with the culture, taste local food and explore the stunning landscape with game drives and private boat cruises on the Chobe River. It is as experiential as it gets.

KENYA

Kichwa Tembo Tented Camp

andBeyond Kichwa Tembo Tented Camp sits in a private concession on the western border of the Masai Mara National Reserve – where some of the most spectacular scenes in Out of Africa were filmed. This simple, yet elegant tented camp celebrates the panoramic views of the game-filled Mara plains. The 12 luxury tents and 28 superior tents all overlook the open grasslands or the shady forest surrounding the Sabarungo River and the rim-flow swimming pool looks out onto magnificent open vistas. With a strong emphasis on privacy, the camp layout maximizes the uninterrupted views, ensuring that each tent enjoys its own Mara experience. The guests' areas have also been constructed with the camp's spectacular Mara views as a focus.
