

Latin America

andBeyond Vira Vira

At this riverside resort in Chile's lake district, the community and environment are cared about almost as much as the guests. You'll notice a 'farm to table' concept on the restaurant menu, and you have the chance, among other activities, to explore the local Mapuche culture. They don't do off-the-shelf packages here – each day, you have the chance to create your own adventures with the excursions manager, so you can embark on whitewater rafting or trekking whenever you want to have a go. And if you want to up the adventure even more, make a dramatic entrance by arriving at the hotel via helicopter!

From £3,740pp for five nights on an all-inclusive basis, including international flights with British Airways, domestic flights, transfers and guided excursions.
